

To Whom It May Concern,

April 30, 2008

I have known Joel Tremblay for the past year, as an intern in our Coaching Internship Programme at St. Michaels University School. In this time, we have shared many positive experiences together.

At the school, Joel contributes regularly to all facets of the school. Through his duties in our boarding community, Joel has built a solid relationship with many of our boarding students. With the teachers, Joel led a professional development workshop in the fall on using/editing Photoshop. In the classroom, Joel has worked with many of the top-level artists at the school. To this end, he inspired a group of these artists to design and create a mural, which will be viewed at the school for many years to come.

While he has been involved in all of these activities, it is through the Athletic Programme that I have come to know Joel best. In his year at the school, Joel has coached volleyball and basketball. I am delighted to report that in both circumstances, the athletes involved had a very positive experience. This, in large part, is a reflection of his coaching.

The best word to describe Joel is enthusiastic. His enthusiasm is contagious, and I know that the students who had the opportunity to work with Joel felt this from the very first day of meeting him. He is also very responsible. Joel never missed a meeting, he was always on time, and he was always quick to get any task accomplished that I asked of him.

I would highly recommend Joel for whatever the job may entail. If you have any questions about him, feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Hunt, B.Ed., M.Ed.
